

view of the gate shown in no 7. The Chinese characters on the left indicate that it is a view of the western gate of the town of Fusan standing erect in the middle of the gateway is a coolie, with a great load of dried grass on his back, which he is taking home to make a fire with. In front of him are sitting three lepers, another standing by them. Their faces are distorted until they scarcely look like human beings, and their voices are like those of animals. They are probably begging a few cash pieces from the passer by.